

About Imogen

Imogen Ragone trained at the Alexander Technique Centre of Virginia, graduating in 2006. After moving to Wilmington, Delaware, she took two online courses in web design and created her own website. Over the past two years Imogen has designed attractive and effective websites for over 20 other Alexander teachers in three continents.

About Robert

Robert Rickover graduated in 1981 from the School of Alexander Studies, London. He was one of the first Alexander teachers to successfully use the web, and is creator of The Complete Guide to the Alexander Technique (alexandertechnique.com). He maintains many other websites promoting the Technique - his latest, BodyLearningCast.com, is a podcast devoted to the Alexander Technique.

Imogen has redesigned many of Robert's websites over the last two years, including alexandertechnique.com, AlexanderAudio.com, alexandertechniquenebraska.com, ergonomics.org, physicaltherapy.org, pilatesandalexander.com, alexandertalk.com, thealexandertechnique.net and BodyLearningCast.com.

Alexander Technique Websites

"Imogen helped me to navigate through the artistic possibilities and technical demands of creating a website with great ease and expertise. With the added benefit of her experience as a teacher of the Alexander Technique, she was particularly helpful with wording and photo choices."

Website Design by Alexander Teacher, Imogen Ragone

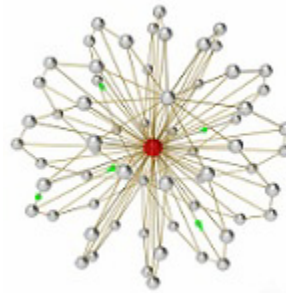

Website Hosting* provided by Alexander Teacher, Robert Rickover

Website Hosting: basically "renting space" on the world wide web, so other people can visit your site. For a website address like: alexandertechnique.com/yourchoiceofname, hosting will cost you $60 per year. If you prefer an address like: yourchoiceofname.com, hosting will cost $75 per year, plus about $8-9 per year to register your domain name. Robert can easily talk you through the registration etc. process if you need help.

Why Have a Website?

"Many Alexander Technique teachers who have their own websites find that the majority of their new referrals come from their website. Unless you have all the students you want, it makes no sense whatsoever to be without one. For almost any kind of business today, not having a website is rapidly becoming equivalent to not having a phone."

- Robert Rickover

What People Say

"I have absolute confidence in recommending Imogen Ragone as a web designer. She is fast, accurate, and a pleasure to work with."

- Ruth Rootberg

www.alexandertechnique.com/amherst

"Imogen intuited my website design - font, color, white space - from my e-mail style and signature, and got it exactly right. She is responsible, creative, and a joy to work with. The whole process was fun and the final product is deeply pleasing."

- Sandra Bain Cushman
